• Project: Linking Quantitative Analysis and Qualitative Experience for Data Vis in VR

This project integrates interactive 2D charts into immersive VR scenes to tightly link precise quantitative analysis with visceral qualitative experience, introducing a three-dimension design space, four prototypes, and a user study showing no added cognitive load.

Role: conceptual design, prototype development, user study, data analysis, manuscript writing.

• Project: A Multi-Agent Framework for Geometrically Consistent Video Generation

This project employs a multi-agent architecture to parse and extract structured information from textual inputs, which is then used to automatically generate data-driven 3D video content.

Role: back-end development, framework design.

• Project: VR Support for De-Escalation Training

Design and create a VR prototype to simulate communication with users for de-escalation skills training and teaching, using GenAI tools to improve the user experience.
